Berlin Blockade Breakable Only 2 Ways: Armed Force Or Retaliation Elsewhere

Allies and Germans Believe Russians Have Killed Diplomacy in Accepted Sense; Are Held as Pawns

Berlin, July 16 (AP)—Only two courses of action have any hope of breaking the Soviet blockade which is strangling this city and bringing Europe closer to war than at any time since Munich.

The first is the use of western power military forces to crash the land blockade.

The second is retaliatory action by the West in other parts of the world which would make it too costly for the Soviet Union to continue its Berlin policy.

This is the common belief of the western allies and the Germans who have seen the Russian action at first hand for three years. They believe further that the Soviet Union has killed international diplomacy in the accepted sense.

Soviet rejection of the western powers' notes surprised none here. It was expected. No one dealing with the Russians in Berlin in the past three years has any hope that any note or protest would have any effect on Soviet policy. This includes any United Nation or world court action.

Failing to achieve what she wanted in Germany at the conference table, Russia has abandoned mediation for direct pressure propaganda.

In the simplest terms 2,000,000 Germans and 25,000 western allies in Berlin are being held as pawns by Russia to achieve her aims in Germany.

These aims are principally two. The first is establishment of a strong German government on the Soviet model dominated by the Communists.

The second is a Soviet voice in the economic life of Germany, principally the industrial Ruhr.

These have been the main demands made by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at every big four conference in the past two years. They have been cloaked in such terms as international control of reparations and development of a "peace loving democratic state," but fundamentally they all go back to the same two points.

Started Months Ago

The squeeze on Berlin was not brought about by the currency reform or the setting up of a western German government. It started months ago when the Russians first cut off allied military trains.

When this was successful without any allied retaliation, the Russians began imposing other controls, waiting each time to test western reaction.

All these took place before the currency reform or the setting up of a western Germany. These last two acts merely served as an excuse for the final squeeze.

Thus the Soviet Union has abandoned diplomacy for direct action.

The fundamental issues must always be kept in mind. They have been obscured by diplomatic double talk and mountains of Soviet propaganda about partitioning Germany, splitting Germany, violation of the Potsdam and Yalta agreements, currency reform and so on.

Abandoning western currency in Berlin wouldn't settle the issue. It

Road Is Closed To Heavy Trucks

Loughran Says Maverick Highway Damaged Recently

The Maverick road, known as county road No. 66, from the Woodstock-West Hurley state highway to the North Ashokan boulevard has been closed to vehicles with a gross load of over four tons because of damage which has been done already through use of the county road by heavy gravel trucks hauling gravel from Woodstock to the new Onteora Trail construction job.

This section of the road has been officially closed by direction of County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran to heavy vehicles under Section 15 of the Highway Law which provides that the superintendent, with the consent of the chairman of the Board of Supervisors, may temporarily close any portion of a county road to vehicles of over four tons when in his opinion that highway would be materially injured by the operation of such vehicles.

Closing of the route to heavy traffic came after an inspection disclosed great damage had already been done to the county road, Loughran said. The road has been used by heavy trucks, operated by a sub-contractor, to haul gravel to construction job on Route 28, known as the Onteora Trail. This gravel is hauled from the gravel bank near Woodstock Playhouse to Route 28 and the

Boy, 5, Missing Father Reports To Kingston Police

A five-year-old Kingston boy has been missing from his home on First avenue since he left Thursday afternoon in the company of a 10-year-old boy, according to a police report.

The younger of the boys is John C. Boughton, Jr., of 159 First avenue. His father, John C. Boughton, reported to police that the child had left early in the afternoon with Ernest Coumbes, 10, whom he described as having dark eyes, blonde hair, and wearing a brown striped polo shirt, long blue trousers and brown sneakers. No address was given for the Coumbes boy.

Mr. Boughton told police the two boys were believed to have in their possession about $10 and that they might have left on the 2:20 p. m. bus Thursday for Albany, where both boys have relatives. However, a teletype check with Albany police brought an answer early this morning that the boys had not been seen at either of the addresses in Albany which were furnished by Boughton.

Young Boughton was described by his father as being three feet, five inches tall, weighing about 50 pounds, with dark blonde hair, brown eyes and wearing dark blue trousers and blue sneakers.

William S. Wood Is Promoted at Kingston Office

Postal Clerk Becomes New Assistant Superintendent of Mails; 37 Years With Staff

Postmaster William R. Kraft today announced the appointment of William S. Wood of 136 Foxhall avenue as assistant superintendent of mails at the Kingston Post Office. Wood has for the past 37 years been a postal clerk in this city.

The establishment of the position as assistant superintendent of mails was granted by the Postal Department following a survey recently made in this city. In addition, the local office was authorized to increase its personnel by three clerks and two carriers. Permanent appointments to those positions will be announced after the results of a recent civil service examination have been received here, Postmaster Kraft said.

The survey by postal officials and the resulting authority to put on additional men came at the request of Kraft, who stated that business transacted by Kingston post offices has increased "exactly 100 per cent" since 1938. Kraft further stated that last year's business was the largest in local history and that this year's business, according to present indications, will exceed that of 1947 by 30 per cent.

In line with recommendations made by the postal officials, the local office has established two new routes to facilitate mail delivery and has scheduled additional mail pick-up times. All mail boxes in the city are now being repainted and the new pick-up schedules posted on the boxes. The postmaster today urged all patrons to familiarize themselves with the new schedules.

Wood, the new assistant superintendent of mails, will work under John N. Purvis, superintendent. Other members of Postmaster Kraft's staff include Robert E. Meeker, assistant postmaster; William Schwab, foreman of carriers, and Edwin H. Kittle and Thomas L. Gorham, station superintendents.

Although these improvements authorized at the local postoffice will greatly improve pick-up and delivery service, Postmaster Kraft said today he still is not absolutely satisfied with the service

Federal Reserve Board Says Investment Tradition Alters

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board went after tradition today. The tradition: That Americans are always eager to take risks on investments.

It just isn't so, the board reported. It said a survey made this year turned up the following information:

1. Only about 6,000,000 of the nation's 145,000,000 persons own stocks and bonds—not counting government savings bonds.

2. The "great majority" of the country's 48,400,000 families prefer to own things with fixed value, like bank deposits and government bonds, rather than those with changing value, such as real estate and securities.

Even among families having incomes of $7,500 or more a year—making up less than 10 per cent of the population—"at least two-thirds" expressed a "definite preference" for assets of fixed value, the board said.

Which led the board to another tradition-cracking finding; "income status did not make a vast difference in the investment plans" of families with $1,000 or

Smith-Parish Roofing and Supply Company bid $4,300. If a new cornice is not needed the old one will be repaired by the school maintenance department.

The matter of purchasing athletic equipment was deferred, pending an examination of bids. The Athletic Committee will study the bids and before awarding a contract the quality of equipment to be supplied by bidders will be looked into by the committee and the director of physical education. The contract will be awarded to the low bidder who supplied equipment which meets the required standards. There were five bidders.

A request was received from the Footlighters for use of the auditorium on October 25 and 26 for a play, proceeds to go to the Boys Club of Kingston. The request was referred to the Auditorium Committee with power.

The work will cost an estimated $5,100 and a contract will be entered into by the city through the mayor with the board for use of the site when the money is made available.

It was also reported that the portable bleachers which had been ordered by the board have been shipped.

The board also voted to refer

Senator Russell Predicts

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D.-Ga.) who garnered 263 votes for the presidential nomination at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia, wipes a perspiring brow during questioning by newsmen at his Winder, Ga., home. Russell predicted the South would be kicked around some more in the special session of Congress called by President Truman. He stood on his early statement that he would refuse to permit his name to be offered in Birmingham as a possible presidential nominee. (A.P. Wirephoto)

Woman Killed In Auto Accident

P.S.C. Approves Bus Line's Plea

Adirondack Transit Gets Permission to Carry New Paltz Fares

New York, July 16—The Public Service Commission in a decision filed here today approved the petition of the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., to carry local passengers between Kingston and New Paltz between the hours of 6 p. m. and 4 a. m. daily.

The ruling, handed down by Hearing Examiner W. T. Wilkinson is an extension of permission granted the company in 1947 to carry local passengers between the two points between 6 p. m. and 3 a. m., daily, which permission expired on May 1 of this year. The added hour in the morning was for the purpose of allowing patrons to ride on the regularly scheduled northbound run which leaves New Paltz at 3:03 a. m.

The public service commission's order will take effect immediately and will expire May 1, 1949.

According to the report of Wilkinson, the Adirondack Bus Holding Co., now the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., was restricted on October 2, 1934, against carrying local passengers between Kingston and New Paltz. The restriction was imposed in favor of Arrow Bus Lines, which operated locally.

On January 10, 1947, Adirondack filed a petition to be permitted to carry local passengers between the two points between 6 p. m. and 3 a. m. This modification was granted for a period of one year on May 13, 1947, with the consent of VanGonsic Brothers, co-partners operating Arrow Bus Lines and brothers of John J. VanGonsic, president of Adirondack Transit Lines.

On May 26 of this year, Adirondack filed a petition asking the order of May 13, 1947, be extended another year and amended to add the extra hour during the morning. W. G. Hanrahan of 495 Broadway, Kingston, appeared as attorney for Adirondack. The hearing was held June 25.

To Help College

Principal testimony offered by Adirondack showed their object was to provide transportation for students and faculty at the State Teachers College in New Paltz and for other residents. It was pointed out that Arrow Bus Lines provide transportation only during the day, with the last scheduled departure from New Paltz to Kingston at

Hotel Entertainer Dies When Car Crashes on Route 55

Sue Roberts Billings, 30, a master of ceremonies at the Terrace Hill Hotel, Ellenville, was fatally injured when the car she was driving overturned on Route 55 near an entrance to the former Yama Yama Farm early this morning.

Only one of four young men riding with her was injured in the mishap, authorities said. He was Dave Cooper, 23, of 1011 Freeman street, Bronx, who was in the front seat with the woman, and who reported only a laceration of the left wrist.

Cooper and another young man in the car, Herbert Kessler, 19, of 1659 Walton avenue, Bronx, are members of an orchestra in the Terrace Room of the Ellenville Hotel where the young woman entertained.

The others in the car were Richard Pancho Bermudez, 23, of 247 East 25th street, New York and Carlos Miguel Duchesne, 19, of 2728 Broadway, New York. Both are employed at the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville.

Coroner Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson said Cooper reported that the driver "apparently had passed out," as the car was making the turn and that he grabbed the steering wheel as the auto started to go off the road.

The car sideswiped a stone wall by the roadside, overturned on its top and skidded about 20 feet, the report said. The young woman was caught in some manner in the

Rubin Is Arrested After Accident; Hit House Fence

Newburgh Man Charged With Leaving Scene of Crash at Port Ewen

Herbert Rubin, 29, of Newburgh, operator of Herb's Diner, Woodstock, was arrested early this morning by Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

The arrest followed an accident in which the auto driven by Rubin, according to the police report, struck a porch on the house of William Shook near the school in Port Ewen at about 5 a. m. today.

Information supplied by Officer Joseph Fallon of the local police, who noticed a car damaged in the front and took the license number as it went over the Washington avenue viaduct, resulted in the arrest, the report said.

Rubin was arrested at Woodstock by Deputy Sheriff Winne and was paroled in the custody of his father when he was arraigned before Peace Justice John O. Beaver of Esopus. Hearing was adjourned until July 20.

The sheriff's report said the car was coming toward Kingston when it left the road, hit a fence, went through the school yard and hit the porch. It knocked the porch 10 feet out of position, the report said.

Local police and the state police were notified of the accident.

Israeli Planes Attack Egyptians

Seven Tons of Bombs Dropped on Field Near Border

Cairo, July 16 (AP)—The Israeli high command announced in Tel Aviv its planes attacked Egypt for the second time and dropped seven tons of bombs today on Tell El 'Arish airfield near the Palestine border. The announcement said the raid caused heavy damage.

At the same time, it announced a new Egyptian air attack on the Tel Aviv area today. The Jews struck from the air at Cairo last night in the first attack on the Egyptians' capital of the Palestine war. Details of the attack, which followed an Egyptian air raid on Tel Aviv, were not announced.

Moslem Brotherhood demonstrators menaced Jewish shops in Cairo in angry protest today against the attack on the capital. The crowd of 1,000 gathered in front of the Al-Azhar Mosque and attempted to march down Al-Azhar street in the commercial district. Police charged with clubs and dispersed the crowd.

A Haifa dispatch said Israeli forces smashed Arab resistance at Tireh, four miles south of Haifa, and eliminated the last threat to their supply highway between Haifa and Tel Aviv.

While the village had not formally surrendered, Jewish forces were mopping up after wiping out or capturing the main force of 700 Iraqis who had been entrenched there since the British left, the dispatch said. Some Iraqis ran the Jewish blockade during the night and hid in the caves of near-by Mount Carmel, it added.

In western Galilee heavy fighting was reported by a Lebanese communique issued in Beirut. The bulletin said the battle for Shajra colony in the area north of Nazareth entered its final state, with Lebanese troops retaining the village after throwing back violent Jewish attacks in which the

Stop Palestine War Strongest Decision Made in U.N. History

Lake Success, July 16 (AP)—The Security Council last night ordered the war in Palestine stopped. It was the strongest decision in United Nations history.

The 11-nation council gave the Jews and Arabs three days to cease firing and committed itself to back up the decision with force. The delegates also ordered an unconditional cease-fire in Jerusalem, effective by tonight. The Holy City is to be demilitarized.

The final vote came on an American resolution after three days of debate. The ballot was 7 to 1 with only Syria in opposition. Russia, the Soviet Ukraine and Argentina abstained. The seven affirmative voters—just enough to approve the plan—included United States, Britain and France.

No Stab at Arabs

It marked a British break with the Arab world but during the closing hours of debate Sir Alexander Cadogan sought to soften the blow by explaining carefully that his government was not indorsing any suggestion that the Arabs are the aggressors. Rather, he said, Britain insists that a truce go on to enable Count Folke Bernadotte to continue Arab-Jew-

Steering Committee Aide Suggests Maneuver May Be Boomerang for Truman

Members Are Irked

Even Democr ; Show Ill-Feeling Toward Proclamation

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Republicans whetted their legislative knives today to chop down any political crops which may sprout from President Truman's "turnip day" recall of the 80th Congress.

Vigorously they assailed Mr. Truman's summons to return July 26 as "cheap politics" but they also dropped broad hints that if there is any vote harvest to be gathered in the special session it will not be a one-party reaping.

One member of the House Republican Steering Committee, who refused to allow use of his name, suggested that G.O.P. lawmakers may open some investigations of the Democratic administration.

Just what might be investigated he did not say. But he told reporters one or two good investigations could provide a lot of campaign ammunition for the Republican party.

Mr. Truman issued his summons yesterday for the return of what he has called about the "worst Congress" in history. Acting just 12 hours after winning the Democratic nomination in a north-south splintered convention, the President said "an extraordinary occasion requires" the special session.

He told the convention he wants Congress to act on nine major problems: Inflation, housing, education, health, civil rights, minimum wage boosts, Social Security, public power and displaced persons.

In Missouri, the President said, July 26 is "turnip day"—the best day to sow seed for a good harvest. But it was clear that in calling back Republican lawmakers on that date to make good on their platform promises it was a Democratic vote harvest Mr. Truman had in mind.

Silent on Special Call

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was silent on the special session call. Next week the Republican standard bearer plans to open campaign headquarters in Washington, where he can take a direct hand in guiding his party's political fortunes — on capitol hill, among other places.

From all sections of the country G.O.P. Senate and House members sounded a mounting chorus of opposition to the special session. To some, resuming the lawmaking chores which they considered finished June 20 will mean simply a halt to their vacations. But to more it will mean a halt in campaigns for November reelection.

Even some Democrats—mostly southerners—showed displeasure. In Birmingham, meanwhile a group of rebel southern party members mapped plans to hamstring Mr. Truman's election chances by leaving their state electors unpledged.

Headed by the state's rights delegates from Alabama and Mississippi who walked out of the Philadelphia convention, the Birmingham group hopes to unite the 11 Dixie states in an anti-Truman bloc in the electoral college.

Russell Is Doubtful

But Senator Russell (D.-Ga.), who received 263 votes for the presidential nomination from the anti-Truman delegates at Philadelphia said he does not consider the Birmingham meeting "the best thing for the party."

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D.-R.I.) meanwhile told national party leaders in Philadelphia that if they can "keep the team together" he is confident they can elect Mr. Truman and his running mate, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

The special session call got a boost from Henry A. Wallace, the third party presidential candidate. He said in a statement issued in New York:

"The new party welcomes the call for a special session of Congress. When Congress meets it will give the country a preview of what bi-partisan campaign promises mean.

"We shall see each party trying to maneuver the other so as to snare votes but at the same time passing no bills that might really aid the people."

No one was ready to predict how

Soviet Papers Protest Attack on Togliatti

Moscow, July 16 (AP)—Soviet newspapers were filled today with protests of Russian citizens against the attempt on the life of Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti.

The press also carried voluminous Tass dispatches from Rome on the Italian general strike and described the labor scene as a series of bloody conflicts between workers and police.

Tass also reported protests against the assassination attempt from Communists in the United States, France and other countries.

Guild Withdrawal From N. Y. Council Is Termed Untrue

New York, July 16 (AP)—Announced withdrawal of the Newspaper Guild of New York from the Greater New York C.I.O. Council was termed "unauthorized and untrue" by the Guild's representative assembly yesterday.

The assembly is composed of delegates representing the various newspaper, magazine and news service units in the city. The group adopted on Wednesday night a resolution by a 2-1 vote directing officers "to honor the Guild's continued affiliation" with the Council.

Last week, Executive Vice President Thomas Murphy and other Guild officers announced the Guild's withdrawal because, they charged, the Council refused to endorse the national C.I.O.'s anti-Wallace, pro-Marshall Plan policy.

The assembly's resolution said the Guild's officers had made "a unilateral action which usurped and violated the constitutional and democratic rights of the New York Guild membership."

The assembly asked that its resolution "be placed before a general membership meeting of the Guild and then be submitted to referendum."

Prior to the vote on the resolution, the assembly had accepted resignation of eight left-wing members of the executive committee who had opposed right-wing officers of the New York Guild.

The executive committee, consists of 17 members who, with the officers, form the Guild's administrative body. The New York Guild claims over 7,000 members.

Forerunner of U. S. Health Service Started by Adams

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Many of us owe our lives and good health to a law signed 150 years ago today—in 1798—by President John Adams.

The law established the Marine Hospital Service, forerunner of the present U.S. Public Health Service, as it has been known since 1912.

From a modest beginning on the Boston waterfront, where sick and injured seamen could be rowed from their sailing ships to a makeshift hospital on Castle Island, the service has grown to this:

It maintains the world's largest research center at the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., with branches throughout the country.

It operates 25 hospitals, 115 outpatient clinics, two hospitals for drug addicts, a leprosarium and 16 major quarantine stations.

Its personnel numbers 17,000. It has been said that not one lives a "safe, routine life."

Almost 20 of its scientists are listed as "killed in action"—martyrs to research on such diseases as Rocky Mountain spotted fever, scrub typhus, meningitis, yellow fever, tuberculosis and parrot fever.

Public Health Service officers, engineers and technicians travel far and wide to build defenses for the public health.

You may find them wearing dungarees, spreading DDT in malarial swamps, or taking pot shots at rodents which might harbor the dread "black death."

They Are All Over

You may find them rat-proofing ships or building sanitary toilets in remote rural districts. You may find them at airports, checking on the health of people coming from the tropics, or you may hear of them taking vaccines to the Eskimos in Alaska.

You may find them taking chest X-rays in the streets of the nation's capital, growing cancers in mice or fighting disease with the products of atomic energy.

Many of their jobs are to prevent sickness, and so often go unnoticed, but here are some of their contributions that have become famed throughout the world:

Dr. J. J. Kinyoun made the first bacteriological diagnosis of cholera in the western hemisphere and first recognized the presence of plague here.

Credit from Army

Dr. Henry R. Carter made certain observations on yellow fever—and the army's great Walter Reed later credited Carter's work with providing him the lead for proving mosquito transmission of "yellow jack."

Dr. Joseph Goldberger made the monumental discovery that pellagra is associated with diet.

Dr. Alice Evans first identified undulant fever and proved that Bang's disease in cattle is caused by the same organisms.

Dr. Rolla Dyer discovered that typhus fever was transmitted by rat fleas.

Dr. John Mahoney and his colleagues were the first to demonstrate the effectiveness of penicillin against syphilis.

In the last war their activities ranged from purifying water in tropical countries to serving with the builders of a railroad paralleling the Burma road.

Craftsmen to Have Representatives at Valley Exhibition

Woodstock, July 16—The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen has been invited to send a representative exhibition to the "Heritage of the Hudson Valley," a project undertaken by the Garden Club of Cornwall and assisted and sponsored by the Hudson River Conservation Society. Having charge of an old Quaker residence built in 1732, the Garden Club holds an annual exhibition to rise funds for its maintenance.

The Cornwall organization in this year's exhibition hopes to bring to the attention of the public the creative achievement of this region which they feel has never been done in a comprehensive manner. The exhibition will be held in the gymnasium of the New York Military Academy in Cornwall during the week of August 23 and is designed to illustrate the valley's cultural development.

Exhibits have been divided into eight classifications as follows:

1. Painting—Eight Hudson river school and eight moderns.
2. Lithographs, etchings, watercolors and engravings.
3. Gardening—three scale gardens, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries.
4. Architecture—blown-up photographs of old stone buildings, Greek revival, octagonal and Hudson River Gothic.
5. Literature—from Dr. Cadwaladar Colden, 1734, through Washington Irving to the many contemporaries.
6. Navigation— six ship models, old maps and marine prints.
7. Furniture—three or four settings from old river families.
8. Handicraft—old and contemporary—ceramics, glass, weaving, needlework, silver and metal—including sculpture and woodcarving.

Governor and Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and other prominent persons are included in the list of patrons.

The Guild expects to announce in the near future the craftsmen whose work will be exhibited.

SwoonFeverMakes Hit With Maverick Theatre Audience

Woodstock, July 16 — Swoon Fever, a new comedy in three acts by Russell Bernhardt was presented for the first time with great success to an enthusiastic audience Wednesday evening at the Maverick Summer Theatre with Woodstock teen-ager Judy Small in the leading role.

It was evident from the audience reaction that adults as well as those of the younger generation present recognized and enjoyed the symptoms of hero worship so convincingly portrayed by Judy Small as Penny Wheeler who organizes and becomes president of the "He's My Man Club." The man in the case is the nationally known crooner Frank Marco played by Richard Williams. Penny and her fellow high school students go to great lengths to promote their hero. The ensuing complications cause much disturbance to all concerned.

Kay Dawn in the role of Hilda, the Wheeler's housekeeper, does a remarkably good job as she tosses off her lines convincingly and cleverly in the midst of the constant turmoil in the Wheeler household.

As Penny's older sister, Helen Bernstein gave a good performance in her characterization of Judith.

Others in the cast, all of whom contributed to the entertainment, were Allen Brown as Dr. Matthew Wheeler, Richard Williams as Frank Marco, Cliff J. Kirwan, the football hero Jerry Patterson; Katherine Guilford as Nancy, Lee Donner as Marge, and Patty Gilmore as Lucille.

The Wheeler's living room is the scene of action throughout the play which was staged by the author. The attractive set was designed by Roy Graves.

Portrait Painter Makes Specialty Of Childhood Oils

Woodstock, July 15—Nearly one thousand persons have visited the Woodstock Art Gallery since Friday last when the current exhibition preview and reception was held. Among the 83 pictures and sculpture pieces, many of which represent the work of the more prominent artists in the community, is a portrait, Boy, by Jane Jones.

This portrait was inspired by one of her two young boys. Jane, who is Mrs. Wendell Jones, first began to study painting in Paris at the age of 14 and later studied at the Art Students League in New York, and came to Woodstock, beginning in 1931 for the League's summer classes. It was in these sessions that she met her husband. The first home was on the Maverick next door to Hervey White.

During the early years of their marriage, the Joneses travelled and painted in the southwest. About this, Jane said, "In the southwest I found the most patient and charming models among the Mexican and Spanish-American children. This gave me such delight in my work that subsequently portraiture has been my chief interest. My two young boys have cut into my painting time but now that they are five and seven years of age, I am finding more time to work while they are at school or safely on their own sturdy legs."

It had been Jane's hope that her young sons would be perpetual models but contrary to expectations it is only by the utmost "coercing, wheedling and bribing" that she gets an occasional sketch of their "otherwise beautiful natures."

Her work has been exhibited in many parts of the country, and has received commissions from New York, Carlisle, Woodstock and Boston. She is highly regarded as a portrait painter, particularly of children. Regarding this work she said, "I think that my greatest pleasure in portraiture is the effort to catch an essential quality of a personality without too much emphasis on the features."

Husband Wendell, president of the Artists Realty Company, is also a prominent artist.

Kalisky Arrested

Frank Kalisky, 44, R.D., Highland, was arrested by the State Police of Highland on a third degree assault charge early this morning. He was arraigned before Peace Justice Hobart C. Smalley, town of Plattekill and lodged in the county jail in default of $100 bail. Hearing was set for 7:30 p. m. July 23. The arrest was on complaint of Kalisky's wife, the police said.

Working on Recreation Field

Woodstock, July 15—Supervisor Kenneth L. Wilson and all members of the Recreation Committee as well are putting their shoulders to the wheel, so to speak, to make the most of the clear weather in an attempt to complete work on Recreation Field which is to be Woodstock's Living Memorial for those who lost their lives in the armed forces.

Funds for this project were not adequate it was found for the necessary work to be done and to accomplish as much as possible, the various members of the committee with Wilson are contributing their time and work.

Those on the committee who are taking part are William West, chairman; Montcena DeWitt, Warren Hutly and Walter Van Wagenen. To speed up the work so that the children may the sooner have the use of the field and playground, Howard France, superintendent of highways, has been giving his valuable assistance.

Several dump trucks have delivered more than 200 loads of sand taken from the Bonnie Braes development as a contribution from Louis Lewis and Louis Segal. If favorable weather continues, it is possible that the summer program at the field will be under way within a week. The opening day will be announced.

Boy Is Subject Here

Serigraphs Show Will Open Saturday

Woodstock, July 16—An exhibition of serigraphs by Marion Huse will open at the Mitchell Galleries Saturday. This exhibition was shown in France last February and prior to that in Belgium and Holland. It is understood that the medium was new in Europe and caused quite a stir as the Europeans saw the possibility of such a technique.

In the United States, the artist has shown her paintings and prints in New York, Boston and Albany. She is a member of the National Serigraph Society.

The ceremonies will cover a three-day period. Thousands of Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force troops will take part in them. Salaries Are Boosted Detroit, July 16 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. today boosted salaries of 25,500 employes by from $20 to $50 a month.

Firemen's Lawyer Says Paper to Be Served in Pay Case

Attorney Francis Martocci, who represented the Kingston Uniformed Firemen's Association in their recent court action to obtain payment of salaries as voted them by the fire commissioners, will return from his vacation to serve a copy of Justice Francis Bergan's decision with notice of entry upon the city.

Martocci made known his decision to return in a telephone conversation this morning with George E. Yerry, Jr., union business agent. Yerry said that during the conversation Martocci had voiced his opinion that the city has no basis for an appeal of the decision, "but is simply using dilatory methods to keep the firemen from receiving the salaries legally due them."

According to Yerry, Martocci was informed yesterday of a statement by Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly that the city would appeal Justice Bergan's decision.

The decision to which Connelly referred was one in which Bergan ruled that under the present charter of the city the fire commissioners have the sole power to fix the salaries of members of the fire department and that the city treasurer, must honor the vouchers presented by the commissioners so long as there is sufficient funds in the fire fund.

Attorney's Statement

Martocci authorized Yerry to issue the following statement today:

"Before I left for my vacation I attempted to obtain a statement from officials of the city of Kingston regarding the truth of rumors that an appeal was to be made by the city. The answer received was that further time was required to study Judge Bergan's decision.

"Having been informed of a statement issued by Corporation Counsel Connelly that an appeal will be made, I have made arrangements to return from my vacation so that an immediate order can be issued. In my opinion the city of Kingston has no basis for an appeal, but is simply using dilatory methods to keep the firemen from receiving the salaries legally due them."

In his statement issued Wednesday, Connelly pointed out that no appeal can be taken until the attorney for the firemen enters an order signed by Judge Bergan and serves a copy with notice of entry upon the city. He added that, "It is understood by us that some little time might elapse before this is done, due to the fact that the attorney for the firemen will be out of town for a few weeks."

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

HONOR OF POURING AT TEA

A reader asks: "Does the supposedly honored person, that a hostess asks to sit at the dining room table and pour tea for guests, have no opportunity to join the others in the living room at any time during the tea? If this is so, what privilege could there be in an invitation to pour?"

There are several privileges. Foremost, perhaps, is that of the prestige of being thought the most attractive of the hostess's friends or possibly the most celebrated. In any case, she is always the center of a changing group. Strangers as well as friends are privileged to talk with her and even to draw up a chair. She is, in fact, a haven of refuge for those who may find themselves alone or with few friends at the party.

Quite apart from the art of pouring tea (which is no light one) one detail which makes her duties especially easy is that she is not expected to have to introduce people, nor is she expected to recognize anyone's name.

Keep Glove On

Dear Mrs. Post: My friends answer their own doors. If a woman visitor shakes hands with the host or hostess at the front door, should she pull off her right glove first before doing so?

Answer: She keeps her glove on and there is no reason to excuse herself for doing so.

Silver Tea Set on Display

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it bad taste to display a silver tea set on its matching tray on the sideboard in the dining room?

Answer: It is not in bad taste but it is in this day very unusual to see it on display. This is probably because it tarnishes too easily outside of its non-tarnish warppings. Otherwise, it has to be cleaned constantly. If you like to put it out, the dining room is the proper place for it.

Grandparents of Wedding Attendants

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to invite the grandparents of my wedding attendants to the wedding? Invitations really have to be counted or they won't go around.

Answer: It would be courteous to invite them to the church to see their granddaughters. Whether you also could invite them to the house would depend upon how much room you may have.

Arranging the tea tray as well as how and what to serve are described in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Afternoon Tea," E-27. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Would Have Congress Quit

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Senator Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.) said today he will seek to have Congress quit as soon as it convenes July 26 in response to a call from President Truman. Johnston is a leader of the southern Democrats' rebellion against Mr. Truman's civil rights program. He has been outspoken in his opposition to anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, anti-segregation and similar laws. The South Carolina Democrat told reporters of his plan as members of the Republican majority in House and Senate continued to assail the recall of the 80th Congress which Mr. Truman has called the "worst in history."

Warsaw, Poland, (AP)—Peasants of Poland are joining Leftist political parties in increasing numbers. Organizers for the Polish Socialist party reported a total of 123,800 peasants had joined. These peasants represent 1,800 communal groups and 6,600 village groups. The peasants who have thus signed up with the Socialists soon will be Communists—at least technically. The Socialists are merging with the Communist Workers party on or about October 1.

The initiative to bring the immigrants came from the Young Men's Christian Association of Brazil.

Stop Palestine . . .

ish negotiations.

Israel is expected to comply with the order. Arab delegates have told the council they could see no chance of the Arab countries accepting.

Under the council order failure of either side to comply within three days automatically "demonstrates" a breach of world peace. The council then is committed to immediately consider invoking its most potent weapons under the U. N. Charter—diplomatic sanctions, economic sanctions and international land, sea and air forces.

Order Goes to All

Copies of the order immediately went out to Israel and the seven Arab nations under Bernadotte's signature. The Swedish count booked air passage for his Middle East headquarters on Rhodes for tomorrow. Meanwhile, he tackled the job of rounding up a corps of military observers to control the new armistice, which is to continue until a peaceful settlement of the Palestine problem is reached.

UNHAPPY MISERS

There are always stories of misers dying in apparent poverty amid hoarded riches, but in the last few years there seem to have been more of them, accompanied by more spectacular circumstances than the usual such tale discloses.

The Collyer brothers of New York City were an example. Their house was crammed with clothing, bank books and all manner of junk, and among the lot were seven grand pianos.

Two more recent cases, one in Wisconsin and one in New Jersey, show the same type of morbid mind. In the first, two persons were found ill and freezing in a home "the scene of unbelievable filth, piled with hundreds of yards of new dry goods, old rags, new and old shoes, battered hats and yellowed newspapers. Cooking was done over a kerosene stove with blackened utensils, the sink was a basin on a board, water was furnished by a hand pump, lanterns gave illumination, burlap bags covered the windows." The couple had cash and real estate.

In the other case a woman died alone, with $4,000 in cash in the house, bank books with a balance over $14,000. Much of the cash was in pay envelopes earned by the woman years ago in a silk mill. Women will be interested in the fact that there were 75 new bedsheets and quantities of unused silk hose.

What makes people do these things? What queer fear of poverty dogs their days and nights? What deep sense of personal inadequacy to earn a living fogs their unhappy minds?

How pleasant a thing is normal life—where the husband earns money and the wife earns home comfort and together they raise a family of normal children who in turn look forward to productive work by day, to pleasant evenings and the sense of accomplishment that comes with work and companionship, life, love and laughter!

Report says the Communist Information Bureau picks Russian government as a model. Just goes to show the sort of information it has.

OLD AND MODERN

Modern furniture designers have modified chairs and tables to harmonize with streamlined homes. But they can't improve much on the comfort and practicability of many pieces of household equipment used long ago.

Pictorial records show the ancient Greeks and Egyptians relaxing on chairs much like the chaise longue. The middle ages had folding seats, swivel chairs and swing-back benches. Can modern craftsmen do any better than the break-fronts of 200 years ago that had everything from book shelves and pigeon holes to secret compartments?

Like their predecessors, twentieth century furniture artists have had to create what was both pleasing to the eye and of use to a household. Some of the newest curves and twists seen in furniture shops today probably would have startled ancient Greeks. Yet there has been little basic difference through the ages.

Even in furniture design there is little that is really new under the sun.

More people were at work in the United States in June than ever before—61,296,000 of 'em. Then how come the park was so crowded?

PILLAR OF PROMISE

A century ago the cornerstone of the Washington Monument was laid. Among the thousands of onlookers at the ceremony were President James K. Polk and a former President, Martin Van Buren. Also there were Abraham Lincoln, Millard Fillmore and Andrew Johnson, then three obscure members of Congress, and James Buchanan, Polk's secretary of state. Probably no one of the four guessed that each was to move on into the White House.

The incident is one of those told in the centennial book, "The Washington Monument, Story of a National Shrine," published by Chalmers M. Roberts. In it are many interesting facts about the history, architecture and meaning of the obelisk. But the book does not risk prophecy for any contemporary statesman who may be participating in the hundredth anniversary celebrations for the monument.

How interesting to conjecture what future presidents may stand this summer in the shadow of the shaft.

DEWEY VS. TRUMAN

The differences in personality between Harry Truman and Tom Dewey will appear fully during the campaign. Both, it is true, were born in small towns; both are wedded to family life; both lack that physical stature, that public manner, that startling voice that Hollywood and the radio have made so popular in American politics. Both are unquestionably honest men. Both are lovers of music.

But there the similarities cease. Harry Truman is neither by education nor training prepared for the tremendous tasks which political fortune has thrust upon him and which he now assumes voluntarily. Tom Dewey has spent all his mature years preparing himself for the presidency. Harry Truman fears men of superior qualities. Although at first he turned to Herbert Hoover, Bernard Baruch, James Byrnes and other experienced citizens for support, he has since surrounded himself with inferior persons, cronies of Missouri or his early Washington days, flatterers and fawners but not men of administrative ability or political prescience.

Tom Dewey built a team of extraordinarily competent men who have been with him since he entered upon a public career. Curiously, an unusually large number of them are around 46 years old, as is Dewey himself. Some of them were raw material when they cast their lot in the Dewey career; they have been hammered by experience into a competent administrative force which can work together. There are no private quarrels, no empire building, no back-biting or back-scratching in this team, whose success is the result of learning to work together over a prolonged period. I know each man and woman on it well and personally, and what those at the Philadelphia convention saw for the first time, I have witnessed for years—as smooth an organization as a Notre Dame football team.

Whereas Truman has had to slap down his assistants publicly and whereas they fight each other in public, the Dewey team does not consist of robots. They sit with the Governor in council where everything is put on the table, every difference of opinion, every criticism, every gripe. As these men have been with him throughout his career, from racket-busting up, they are used to each other and are intimate and they speak frankly —but they do not bicker. Decisions are made by the team and once made are carried through.

I cite an instance from the Republican convention. When Joe Martin refused to permit Senator Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut to poll his delegation, the Dewey leaders on the floor realized that there would be trouble. But no one rushed to the telephone to consult either Dewey or Brownell. When the motion for adjournment came and was booed and hooted, Ed Jaeckle and Russell Sprague decided to announce that New York had no objection to an adjournment. They knew that the adjournment was called to stop Dewey, but they did not hesitate. Dewey told me subsequently that he did not know what it all meant and wanted news. But his representatives acted on their own. I drove from the convention hall with Jaeckle and we were speculating on what Dewey would say about not making a fight on the adjournment. Jaeckle finally said, "Nothing. Tom delegates. That's why it must work. We don't need a conference every five minutes."

It is this administrative skill which gives Dewey his competence. For he is not all-knowing, all-wise. And that he is willing to admit. That is why he emphasizes team work and why he got along so swimmingly with the New York legislature. A man who recognizes his limitations and has the wisdom to compensate them is a great administrator. For most of the bottlenecks in business as in government are at the top where often sits a boss who ties important problems into knots because he is incapable of handling them and he will not delegate authority to a big enough man—out of fear or jealousy.

Harry Truman failed just for that reason. A decent, honest, well-meaning man, he lacks the knowledge for his job and the administrative skill to compensate for his limitations by organizing a top-notch team. He cannot use big enough man.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DON'T THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

We read from time to time of some individual, shortsighted for years, who, by the use of eye exercises, is able to "throw away his glasses." The fact that one famous scientist announced to the world that eye exercises corrected his poor eyesight has made many wonder why they cannot get such results by these exercises so that they, too, can do without glasses.

From time to time, on the other hand, we read that eye exercises are of no value in correcting or helping the eyesight, and doing away with glasses does permanent damage to the eyes. What is the truth in this matter?

Every specialist has cases in which he prescribes eye exercises, particularly in those cases where the eyes or an eye is "turned" slightly from its normal or straight position. By placing a "patch" over part of the good eye and making it necessary for the patient to use the muscles of the "weak" side, good results sometimes can be obtained without operation.

In the "American Journal of Opthalmology," Drs. H. R. Hildreth, W. H. Meinberg and B. Miller describe research undertaken to find the value of visual training as a means of improving the vision in patients with myopia (shortsightedness). This procedure required the use of several instruments—arenson squint corrector, a Keystone "tel-eye trainer" with certain Keystone cards, and an American Optical Company "Wells-head." The method used was divided into 11 individual steps laid out for a training period of 24 days, averaging about one hour per day.

Of 87 shortsighted patients, 33 either were rejected or their training was not completed, leaving 54 records for study. Thirty of these 54 studied showed no improvement, while 12 showed definite improvement—the best results being obtained in the patients with a small degree of shortsightedness. The improvement in the 12 cases was about 27 per cent. From the above investigation it can be seen that eye exercises have value in the mild cases of shortsightedness.

These physicians believe that some of the improvement is due to an increased effort on the part of the patients to improve their eyesight by means of the methods and instruments used in the investigation.

The thought is that eye exercises do have merit and help some cases, but glasses should not be thrown away until the ophthalmologist or optometrist says so.

Gad, What Tremendous Enthusiasm

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington. — Footnotes on Philadelphia—There is nothing more agonizing than to watch a person die. At Philadelphia it was equally agonizing to watch a once-great party in its death struggles.

It was especially agonizing because the doctor in charge wouldn't call in a specialist.

It seldom happens in real life anymore, because doctors have got over professional jealousy and use common sense about calling in specialists. But history will record that the tragic death struggles of the Democratic party at Philadelphia were largely because one very nice, optimistic little man set serene and confident, claiming that all would come out right if things were left to him. He flatly refused to call in a surgeon.

At first the relatives protested, said they wanted a new doctor. But the little family doctor said no. His old-fashioned medicine had been good enough before, he said, and it was good enough now. So the relatives sat round the bedside, quietly calculating what inheritance they could salvage out of the deceased's estate. They were reconciled to the death.

Personally, I don't like to see people die; so I came back to Washington early where a perspiring State Department is now grappling with the worst war crisis since before Pearl Harbor.

Show Down In Berlin

Ire against Russia is so tense in Berlin that certain high-placed U. S. officials (civilians) have been urging Gen. Lucius Clay to break the Soviet blockade by force.

They want him to arm a food train in the American zone of Germany and send it speeding through the Russian zone to Berlin with U. S. troops in armored cars riding just behind the engine ready to shoot if the Russians resist.

These U. S. officials go so far as to plan countermeasures in case the Russians sabotage the rail line. They propose that a corps of U. S. Army engineers be sent along to repair any torn-up rails, also to repair the River Elbe bridge if blown up by the Russians.

Some officials, quite close to Clay, claim that Russia is not ready for war and would try to "localize" any trouble with the United States. There might be some clashes between U. S. and Red Army troops around Berlin, they advise, but Russia would not let them spread to the rest of Europe. She would backdown first.

General Clay, however, doesn't agree. So far he has rejected this explosive advice. He says that if an incident took place, you never can control men's passions. Trouble might spread whether Moscow wanted it or not. Privately, Clay has described such measures as "unwise and dangerous," likely to "commit us to war."

Instead General Clay favors economic sanctions, before making a move which could convert a cold war into a shooting war. For instance, Clay thinks that we have been too lenient with the Russians regarding shipping and air facilities, that we should crack down on the Russians economically. This would hurt, but not risk war.

In brief, here is one historic case where a soldier is reluctant to use force though civilians urge it. Congratulated by an old acquaintance on not being trigger-happy, General Clay remarked:

"Maybe that's why they keep a soldier in Berlin."

Note—Clay trained during the war under War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes, a great believer in the art of persuasion to accomplish things.

Tito's Publicity

Yugoslavia's frank Ambassador Sava Kasanovic was attending a diplomatic reception when Sen. Harley Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat, joshed him about Yugoslavia's break with the Cominform.

"I notice," Kilgore greeted the Ambassador, "that Yugoslavia has been in the news lately."

"Yes," smiled Kasanovic, "we haven't needed a press agent for several days."

Behind the Note to Russia

Here is the inside story behind the diplomatic protest sent by the U. S., France and England against the Russian blockade of Berlin.

Real fact is that the United States did not inspire the recent simultaneous notes. It was the pet project of British Foreign Minister Bevin.

Late at night, Bevin summoned U. S. Ambassador Lew Douglas and French Ambassador Rene Massigli. Handing them copies of a note, he said that his advisers had prepared the draft of a protest to Moscow and that the United States, Great Britain and France ought to dispatch it simultaneously.

"See what you think of it," he said.

Ambassador Douglas replied that the United States would have to wait and study it. But the French Ambassador told Bevin on the spot that the note was too strong. France, he said, could not go along.

Later the French rewrote the original Bevin note. They pointed out that the note was an ultimatum based on such strong language that the Russians could give only one reply—a flat no. Instead they suggested a milder tone with at least some points on which Russia could agree.

The United States concurred with the French and the final notes were based upon the general ideas proposed by the French.

Berlin Merry-Go-Round

In Berlin, Ambassador Robert Murphy was wakened one night by the sound of singing and tap dancing in his cloistered garden. Going to the balcony, he discovered the entertainer was the lone American sentry stationed there to guard him. When Murphy rebuked him mildly, the G.I. said: "Sorry, sir, but that tune is a favorite of mine." . . . The Russian blockade has not been able to keep the stork out of the American sector. In fact the stork has an especially easy time there, for hospital charges, including prenatal care, are $15. . . . One of the hardships suffered by blockaded Americans in Berlin is tearfully told in the official U.S. bulletin: "Owing to gasoline rationing, house delivery of Coca Cola will be temporarily suspended." . . . Most Germans happily consume the contents of any CARE packages they receive, but if sold, the packages bring 2,500 marks, which is a full month's salary for a white-collar worker. . . . When Mrs. Lucius D. Clay emerged from a plane in Frankforth the other day, she looked like a worker in a flour mill. The plane had just carried a load of flour to Berlin. . . . Cargo planes are not returning empty from Berlin; many an American family is shipping its furniture, even pianos—out of the blockaded city by air. . . . Vignette in the Frankfort PX: A G.I. at the lingerie counter, holding up a brassiere for the inspection of his fraulein. She cannot be admitted to the PX but stands eagerly at the door. "How's this for size?" he calls out, and she grins and says, "ya, ya."

President Has Made Big Blunder in Calling Special Session, but He Is Viewed as Loser

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 16—The worst political blunder of the year has been made by President Truman in calling Congress into extra session, though he and his advisers have deluded themselves into believing it is a clever political trick that will embarrass the Republicans.

Mr. Truman will lose out no matter what the Republican Congress does.

If it passes desired legislation and he vetoes the bills passed, it will prove the necessity of electing a Republican President so as to be rid of the obstructionist tactics of the present incumbent.

If desirable legislation meets with Mr. Truman's approval, the credit may be equally divided but the Democratic nominee loses one of his most important campaign arguments—the failure of the 80th Congress to pass certain legislation which he mentions repeatedly in his speeches.

If the Congress gets all tangled up in an endless filibuster over civil rights, it will merely emphasize the rift in the Democratic party and the need for more Republican votes in Congress to overrule the southern Democrats.

If, as Mr. Truman boldly advocated in his speech of acceptance in Philadelphia, the cloture rule should be invoked in the Senate to curtail debate, he will find that many Republicans will ignore the civil-rights issue itself and shift to the question of whether the right of free discussion should be shut off by a temporary majority. Adoption of cloture would abolish the rights of the minority which have never been seriously challenged before in the Senate.

If the civil-rights issue goes into a lengthy filibuster, nothing constructive will be accomplished and Congress may decide by majority vote to adjourn in sheer disgust.

While the northern Democrats ostensibly will do all they can to help the Truman cause by partisan tactics, the southern Democrats will have no such sympathetic attitude and in the end there will be many a popgun measure put up to Mr. Truman which he will have to veto. If the measures cannot command enough support to win a two-thirds vote to override a veto, the Republicans will plead for a Republican President to be elected so as to end the stalemate in government.

Many times in American history a Congress of one party has successfully fought a President of another party. The Republicans have many a piece of legislation on which they would like to make a further record. For one thing they can propose even deeper cuts in taxes. For, since Congress adjourned, the biggest surplus in history has been revealed. So, despite the pressures of European aid, there are apparently enough receipts from taxes to permit a drive for tax reduction.

Mr. Truman will have to eat his words when it comes to tax bills. The Republicans may spread the benefits even wider than Mr. Truman proposed originally and the President would have to veto them.

In his Philadelphia speech the President spoke of the recently enacted tax law thus:

"They (the Republicans) passed a tax bill over my veto on the third try. They finally sent a tax bill that was somewhat improved but it still helps the rich and sticks the knife into the backs of the poor."

This is a very odd way for the President to refer to the many members of the Democratic party in the House and Senate who voted to enact that very tax bill This was the bill that said that rich and poor alike could divide the income between a husband and wife.

The Republicans will remember the phrase about sticking "the knife into the backs of the poor" and there will be tax proposals presented to Mr. Truman so he can remove the "knife" if he really wants to equalize matters.

The Republicans have yet to reveal their strategy. They have been told by Mr. Truman that they can do in 15 days all that the Democratic Congresses failed to do in 14 years—but that's a large order and one that looks impossible of fulfillment so long as Mr. Truman wields the veto ax.

Secretly some Republicans are rejoicing over the special session. They didn't want to call one for fear it would look as if they were doing it just to carry out Democratic demands but with the President taking the initiative the way is cleared to fill in the serious gaps left by the necessity for adjourning in time for the convention of June 21st, last.

So far as Governor Dewey is concerned he may well say the session cannot pass any legislation to carry out the Republican platform because a Democratic president has revealed himself to be merely a political partisan and hence unlikely to sign what a Republican Congress may propose. The argument will be to wait until next January when both the executive and legislative branches of the government are of the same political party. Mr. Truman will be exhibited more dramatically than the Republicans could have done it as the major obstruction to legislative progress at this time.

BABSON on BUSINESS

BABSON REMINISCES

Gloucester, Mass., July 16—I am back again for an annual visit to my old home city. Cannot help reminiscing and comparing conditions today with those of my boyhood days.

People More Prosperous.

Certainly the people now have much more in food, clothing and shelter than ever before. They dress better and have better homes. Probably over half the families have automobiles and most children go to high school. Whether these young people are any happier than we were, is questionable. A ride on a merry-go-round is no more fun today at 25 cents than at a nickel in my day.

These better conditions are not due to the people working harder or longer; in fact everyone worked ten hours a day when I was a boy. These better conditions are due to the machine age and mass production. The chain stores have also brought goods to the people for less money although they are hard on the local merchants for whom I truly feel sorry. Surely, if some of the old time storekeepers should come back they never would recognize Main street, bordered on both sides with flashy "chains," automobiles and gas stations.

Opportunities Are Less

The freedom and opportunities which we boys had fifty years ago no longer exist. Not only is it difficult now to get a good job without belonging to a labor union, but almost every trade is governed by laws and regulations. Everyone with whom you deal, from the nurse who takes care of your baby to the undertaker who burns you must register and have a license. This applies also to druggists, plumbers, painters, electricians, builders, masons and even barbers. Ostensibly, these "examinations" are demanded to protect the public, but they are fast developing into a racket.

Not only are young people handicapped today in getting jobs and learning trades, but the wage and hour laws discourage employers from building new plants and expanding. The "drive" and willingness to take a risk, so evident in my boyhood days, is very rare today. Almost all are depending upon something apart from their own brain, thrift and energy to support them. It may be a state law, a labor union, a pension or some stocks and bonds —or perhaps Uncle Sam! Courage is lacking. The present habit of avoiding personal responsibility for one's troubles will someday cause a smash.

Education is Worse

The most dangerous change is the source of education. In my boyhood our education came from the home, the school and the church. Today these great institutions have lost their grip on the youth. The young people of Gloucester and most every other city are today being "educated" by movies, radios and comics. None of these existed when I was a boy. They must be controlled or "God help America". The curse of liquor is bad enough, but the liquor problem is no worse now than during my boyhood. Our school committees are asleep.

Perhaps this flood of so-called comics (I refer to the pamphlets not to the newspaper strips) are perhaps the greatest new danger which I notice. Fifty years ago one could get the Police Gazette in most barber shops and saloons, but these new "comic" magazines are everywhere and are very much worse. I wish every reader of this column would buy and read a half dozen of these terrible publications; but then, please burn them! You will soon realize that these cursed comic magazines are responsible for most of today's juvenile delinquency.

Estate Is Purchased

Geneva, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—The Capuchin fathers of the province of Stigmata, St. Francis, Italy, have purchased the 12-acre Nester estate on the shore of Seneca Lake. The estate includes a three-story Italian villa. The sale was announced last night by Harold A. Nester of Bayport, L. C-47 Lands Here On 'Crash Rescue'; Has Jeep, Trailer

A C-47, attached to Westover Field Air Rescue Service, Chicopee, Mass., landed at the Kingston Ulster Airport Wednesday on a simulated "crash rescue." The huge army plane carried a regular size jeep and trailer in its hull which were quickly unloaded and dispatched to the scene of the "crash" at Hunter, about 26 miles north of Kingston. Besides the jeep and trailer the ship carried a crew of eight men including Capt. C. K. Maxwell of Oklahoma, in charge of the mission, his co-pilot Lt. Philip Hodge of Florida, a four-man rescue team headed by the para-doctor, Lt. Stanley Bear of Pennsylvania, a radio operator and an engineer.

An L-5, a single engine high wing two-seater acted as liaison between the "crash" and the C-47, which remained at the Kingston Ulster Airport for further orders. Originally three planes were sent out to search for the fake "crash scene." The third, a B-17 was the first to locate the spot but was later called to Long Island to investigate a very real crash.

Warehouse Is Destroyed

Somerville, N. J., July 16 (AP)—A newly occupied Gulf Oil Co. warehouse in nearby Bridgewater township was destroyed yesterday in a $1,000,000 fire. Volunteer fire companies from eight neighboring townships battled the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. The charred rubbish continued to smolder long after. The damage estimate was made by State Police. The brick building, on Chimney Rock Road between Route 29 and Union avenue, was occupied by the company only three weeks ago. The office staff moved in only last Friday.

Today's hand is from my former associate, Col. Russell J. Baldwin, tournament manager of the American Contract Bridge League. It is his name that is associated with mine in the McKenney-Baldwin movements which are used in tournaments throughout the country. During the war, Baldwin's mathematical ability was employed by the government in ballistics.

Although Baldwin seldom plays bridge (he is an outstanding card player. He figures every play with mathematical precision, as he did in today's hand.

North's bid of two spades over two hearts was an ace-showing bid, and did not necessarily show a spade suit.

Baldwin won the opening lead of the queen of clubs with the ace. Then he took three rounds of trumps, and when East discarded the king of clubs on the last round of diamonds, Baldwin had a clear picture of the hand. He knew that East had held only two diamonds, and he felt sure that he had only two clubs. That left him with five and four in the major suits.

At this point Baldwin cashed the ace, king and queen of hearts, discarding two clubs from dummy, then he led the small club, which West won with the ten-spot. East was squeezed and let go a spade.

West's best defense at this point was to give declarer a sluff and a ruff, so he continued with a club. Baldwin trumped in dummy, and East let go a heart. Declarer also let go a heart, then led a spade from dummy to the king and laid down the last diamond.

Once again East was squeezed. If he let go a heart, Baldwin's last heart would be good If he let go a spade, Baldwin would lead the jack of spades, overtake in dummy with the ace, dropping the queen, and the ten would be good for the last trick.

At trick No. 4 Baldwin had correctly read East's distribution and knew that from then on, East was going to be squeezed.

Sails for Europe

New York, July 16 (AP)—Thomas J. Watson, chairman of the board of the International Business Machines Corporation, sailed for Europe aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth early today. He was accompanied by Mrs. Watson, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Watson, and their daughter, Jane. Watson said he is taking a combined business and Boy Scout affairs trip. He said he would be American representative of a meeting of the international commissioners of the Boy Scouts at Kendersteg, Switzerland.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

Don't look now, kiddies, but there's a strange light coming through the window. It's what astronomers call the "Sun," and in my book, it's only good for apricots. Better pay your tab and head for home before its rays start burning a hole in your face.

What's that? You won't go beddy-bye until I've served up another drink and another sleepy-time saga? Okay, my tinies. If you'll promise not to play "Nature Boy" on the juke-box again, Uncle Willie will tell you a Broadway bedtime story about a charmer, a chiser and a chump. . . .

Gloria Wandrix was the unlikely name of our charmer. Her stems hit the Main Stem about the time breweries were moving into bathtubs, and overnight she became the Melba toast of the town. For some 15 years—and some 15 years they were!—this beauteous babe was the first lady of our musical comedy theatre. Broadway put her on a pedestal, and then skinned its knuckles and shins trying to climb up within grabbing distance of her.

But only one gent made it—Sandor Lukaaz, a stumblebum playwright from somewhere east of the Danube. Gloria offered to drive him home from a party one night, and for reasons best known to themselves, the car kept going until it got to Maryland where a parson asked the $64 question.

Broadway didn't give this marriage a chance, but as per usual, Broadway was wrong. When Sandor's plays failed to click, Gloria made him her manager, paid his staggering tailor bills, and supported him in a manor to which he definitely was not accustomed. But was Sandor grateful? Not so's you could notice it, kiddies. Almost before the wedding champagne had a chance to ripen into hangovers, he was back playing the field again, chasing up any hill and down any dale that harbored a pair of high heels.

Strangely enough, this didn't seem to make any difference to Gloria. Instead of tossing the bum out on his well-barbered head, the star let it be known she was crazy about him and had every intention of staying that way.

A year later, the wisenheimers thought they had the answer in the very personable person of Jimmy Barnish. Jimmy was a rich and talented architect from upstate, and he started his promising career in New York by promising to be the other man in Gloria's life.

The know-it-alls figured it this way: Sandor was strictly a lobby guy who ran, fetched and carried while the architect carried on with the fetching Gloria; the star had realized what a stinker she'd gotten hitched to, and had turned to Jimmy Barnish for the usual reasons.

But, my tots, 'tweren't so. This was one Times Square triangle which was on the square. To Jimmy Barnish from Schenectady, Gloria Wandrix was a great lady, and the kick of seeing and being seen with the star was enough for him. He was one of those gentle cuckoos who are content to worship a lady from afar, or at least from the other side of a table at the Colony. Naturally, to Gloria, the architect was dream stuff. The star wanted what every girl wants—to be loved and adored, and being a star, she indulged herself in the luxury of doubling up—getting love from one man and adoration from another.

Only once, my teentsie-weentsies, did the architect suggest that she divest herself of her stumblebum playwright. That was when the papers carried a lot of ugly headlines about two irate husbands locating their wives in Atlantic City with—you guessed it—Sandor Lukaaz.

Gloria, darling," said Barnish the night the papers hit the street, "divorce this scoundrel and marry me. I've loved you for a long time, you know."

"It would never work, my sweet," said the actress. "The attentions you pay me are very flattering to a woman who's getting on. But I doubt whether they'd continue if you saw me morning after morning brushing my teeth, pulling the curlers out of my hair, having my before-coffee tantrums. No, my pet, let's keep it the way it is. Leave the wifely side of me to Sandor—he deserves it."

What's that, Belinda? You won't go home until I tell you what happened to this strange trio? Nothing happened, my little one. They're still around town and still cutting it up three ways. Gloria retired from the stage years ago, but I still see her now and occasionally. As a matter of fact, she gives this joint quite a play, sometimes with the stumblebum, but usually with the architect. On holidays, the three of them come in together—to celebrate the perfect life, I suppose.

And now it's time to lock up, kiddies. On your way out, I'm sure the headwaiter would appreciate it if you tipped him an extra fin. He bought an apartment house last winter and the bums at City Hall recently raised his tax assessment. Sweet nightmares.

Will Support Ticket

New York, July 16 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer says he will do "everything I possibly can to support the Truman-Barkley ticket." The mayor, a pre-convention leader of anti-Truman forces, told reporters yesterday after returning from the Democratic convention: "I left the convention hall with the feeling that the people will elect Truman and Barkley." Saying he approves the Democratic party platform, O'Dwyer added that Mr. Truman's acceptance speech "was forceful and it pinpointed exactly where the trouble with the nation is—and that is the 80th Congres."

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

TWO HEADLINERS are better than one!

NO doubt about it—the tires on your car have a lot to do with its comfort, and the new oversize casings deserve all the headline play they're getting.

But if you like to take things easy as you drive, why be content with one such headliner, when Buick gives you riding comfort in a double dose?

For instance, every 1948 Buick rides on lower-than-usual air pressures. That comes not only from the tire sizes, but from the fact that Buick wheels have the widest rims in the industry.

Wider rims increase tire air capacity. They also straighten sidewalls, giving them a bracing action against side thrust and sway.

Result: Comfort plus control—a soft ride and surer handling—in every Buick in our '48 line.

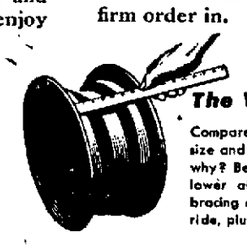
On top of that, every Buick has a soft coil spring on each wheel to back up the cushioning action of the tires.

Each wheel is prepared to step over bumps as they come, front and rear springs are precisely balanced with each other, and both front- and rear-seat passengers enjoy a level, jounce-free ride.

On such springing alone this sprightly fashion plate of '48 would be noted for its easy-going stride.

But we figure that two headline features are always better than one, so every Buick enjoys both gentler springing and lower-pressure tires.

Go try out a Buick and see for yourself what we mean. If you haven't done so already, you'll see your Buick dealer pronto, with or without a car to trade—and get a firm order in.



The Widest Rims in the Industry

Compare Buick rims with those on other cars of the same size and weight, and you'll find that Buick's are wider—why? Because wider rims increase air space and permit lower air pressures. They also give sidewalls an extra bracing action that checks sideway. The result is a softer ride, plus better car control.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

Paraplegic Wounded In Wheel Chair Fight

Memphis, Tenn., July 16 (AP)—A paraplegic veteran was reported in fair condition today after a shooting that climaxed a fist fight from wheel chairs at Kennedy Veterans Hospital.

The wounded man, Richard Hicks, 31, of Canalou, Mo., was shot through the left thigh by a similarly paralyzed patient, said Dr. Clyde Beck, hospital manager.

Beck identified Hicks' assailant as Wallace Rice, 28, of Amarillo, Texas. He said Rice had held a small .25-caliber automatic against Hicks' head, but the safety catch was on and the gun wouldn't fire.

Beck said Rice wheeled his chair over to a friend, Dow Duckworth, 20, of Gainesville, Texas. After Duckworth showed him how to work the pistol, Beck said Rice fire a shot through the floor to make sure the gun was working and then shot Hicks.

Both Rice and Duckworth are held in locked wards pending an investigation by the F.B.I., Beck said. As the shooting occurred on a federal reservation, civil authorities were not called in.

Beck said both men—paralyzed from the waist down—had previously fought on the hospital sunporch until both fell from their wheelchairs. Guards separated them and carried the two men to their beds.

Cooperation Is Asked

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—New York farm workers were urged by Governor Dewey today to cooperate in "Farm Safety Week" beginning July 25. The National Safety Council has designated the week as a period when farm safety should be "heralded all over the United States," Dewey noted in a proclamation released by his office yesterday. The governor added: "New York state is likewise concerned with the well being of our farm people and desires to participate to the fullest possible extent in the program to encourage their safety."

Penicillin Fails In 30 Per Cent of Veteran VD Cases

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Thousands of veterans who took the army's penicillin cure for syphillis may still have the disease without knowing it, the Veterans Administration said today.

The agency urged veterans to check periodically with their private physician or local health department. The V.A. said in a news release:

"Contrary to the popular belief that penicillin is a cure-all for venereal disease, between 20 and 30 per cent of the cases treated with the drug are reported to be 'failures.'"

Furthermore, said Dr. Bascom Johnson, Jr., the agency's assistant chief of syphilology, penicillin treatment for gonorrhea in many cases might have masked the presence of syphillis.

"The comparatively mild dosage for gonorrhea would not cure syphilis contracted at the same time," Johnson told a reporter.

Medical authorities estimate the number of U.S. servicemen treated for venereal disease during the war at 500,000.

Jews Attack From Air

Cairo, July 16 (AP)—The Jews made their first air attack on Cairo last night as Egyptian planes again dropped incendiaries and explosives on Tel Aviv, the Israeli capital. A Baghdad communique said Iraq planes raided Haifa harbor, scoring a direct hit on one large vessel. A lull developed in the Palestine ground fighting except for scattered clashes in the south. A Jerusalem dispatch quoted Jewish intelligence reports as saying "large numbers of Arabs are fleeing from the Holy City. The reports said the latest Arab exodus was northward to Ramallah and eastward to Jericho. The Israeli high command in Tel Aviv said Jewish planes bombed enemy bases near the Palestine-Egyptian border as well as military installations in Cairo.

Gets Emergency Call

Baltimore, July 16 (AP)—Patrolman Anthony Cullota answered an emergency call with shirt in hand last night. The emergency: An 18-year-old brunette was taking a stroll along a busy West Baltimore street in a pair of men's trousers—and nothing else. After making quick use of the shirt, he took the girl to the station house, where she was booked on a disorderly conduct charge.

Rubber-tired steam locomotives may be seen on the highways of England. They are used to pull freight trucks.

Body Is Recovered

Rye, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—A body identified as that of Emanuel Kaplan, 60, Norwich, Conn., textile manufacturer, who had been reported missing on a plane trip, was recovered yesterday from Long Island Sound. No trace of the plane was found. Police, however, had reported an oil slick near where the body was found. Kaplan had left Far Rockaway, Queens, N. Y., by plane alone for Salem, Conn., and had been missing since Tuesday night. Death was caused by drowning and a possible fractured skull, Edwin H. Huntington, acting Westchester county medical examiner, said. The body was spotted about one mile off Milton Point, Rye, by four teen-agers on a boat trip.

Beulah Has $309,977

Los Angeles, July 16 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Beulah Louise Overell, whose parents were killed aboard their dynamited yacht last year, has an estate worth $309,977. This was disclosed in probate court by her executors yesterday. The girl and her former lover, George Gollum, were acquitted of murder charges in the death of her parents, financier Walter E. Overell and his wife.

truckmen used the Maverick road as the shortest route. Maverick road, constructed as a county road, was not built to withstand the unusual heavy traffic and high speed of the trucks now in use and Mr. Loughran said that there is another state route which can be used by the heavy vehicles.

Use of the Maverick road by the heavy trucks has already created a dangerious condidition along the right hand side of the road for south bound traffic. The surface of the road has been torn away for about half the width on the side used by the trucks when loaded and there are several bad spots which have caused broken springs on passenger cars.

To prevent further damage to the county road, which is constructed and maintained by the county, it has become necessary to close the route to all heavy vehicles as of July 12.

Loughran stated today that repairs would be made to the road as soon as men and materials are available.

Father Sought as Slayer

Indianapolis, July 16 (AP)—George Leonard, 47, who had opposed the approaching marriage of his daughter, Frances, 23, today was hunted by police for questioning in connection with her slaying. Miss Leonard was fatally shot yesterday at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Utterback, 10 miles south of here. State Police Detective Jack Hestor said witnesses to the shooting included the girl's mother, Mrs. Bernice Leonard, 47, and her two younger sisters, Sandra Kay, 6, and Glenda, 9. Hestor said Mrs. Leonard related that Frances was her husband's favorite daughter and he had brooded since he learned a month ago she planned to marry Lloyd Keller, 34, a truck gardener of Bargersville.

long the special session might last. It could go on for several months. The President said the program he wants could be put through in 15 days if the legislators cooperated.

Program in Brief

Here, in brief, is the program he outlined in his acceptance speech, what the platforms say on each, and what Congress did in the last session:

1. Halt rising prices. Democratic plank supports President's anti-inflation program, including standby power to impose price and wage controls. Republican plank promises to attack "basic causes" by cutting government spending, reducing public debt, and other measures. The Republican Congress passed a measure featuring voluntary methods to keep prices down.

2. Housing. Democrats pledge "comprehensive" legislation, including slum-clearance and low-rent projects built with federal funds through local agencies. Republicans pledge federal aid to states for the same purpose, but only where need cannot be met by private capital and local and state agencies. Congress passed a bill excluding these features.

3. Aid to education. Democrats advocate federal aid administered by states with an appropriation of $300,000,000 to start it. Republicans favor equality of educational opportunity for all and promotion of education and educational facilities. Aid bill passed Senate, but died in House.

4. National health program. Democratic plank favors such a program for expanded medical research, medical education, and hospitals and clinics. Republicans urge strengthening of federal-state programs to provide more adequate hospital facilities. Never reached floor at last session.

5. Civil Rights. Democratic platform calls on Congress to guarantee racial minorities full and equal political participation, equal opportunity of employment, security and person, equal treatment in service and defense of nation. Republicans favor anti-lynching and anti-poll tax measures, such legislation as may be necessary to maintain right of equal work opportunity, and oppose racial segregation in armed services. No action at last session.

6. Increased minimum wage. Democrats favor increase from 40 to 75 cents an hour. No mention in Republican platform. No action in Congress.

7. Social Security. Democrats favor increase in old age and survivors' benefits by at least 50 per cent, reducing eligibility age of women from 65 to 60, and extension of coverage to workers not now included. Republicans favor extending coverage and increasing benefits to a "more realistic level." Congress passed over veto bill increasing benefits to blind persons and dependent children, but barred old age pensions to 750,000 semi-independent workers the President wanted covered. Truman wants about 20,000,000 added to benefit rolls.

8. Public power and cheap electricity. Democrats favor development and distribution of hydro-electric power over publicly-owned transmission lines, with user preference going to public agencies and rural electrification cooperatives. Republicans favor progressive development of water resources for navigation, flood control and power. No power legislation at last session.

9. Displaced persons. No mention in platforms, but President in acceptance speech asked for "adequate and decent" law. Congress passed a bill allowing 205,000 European refugees to enter this country in the next two years. Mr. Truman called it "anti-Semitic, anti-Catholic" because of certain immigration qualifications.

Disorders Break Out

Rome, July 16 (AP)—Fresh disorders erupted in Italy today as a Communist-led general strike sputtered to a halt. The Communists called off the strike after Premier Alcide De Gasperi's government said it would use force to break the "insurrection." The official end of the walkout at noon (5 a. m. E.S.T.) came amid scenes of wild tumult in the Chamber of Deputies where Christian Democrats and Communists engaged in fist fights. There was repeated in miniature the strike-bred disorders which had swept the country for 36 hours.

Cerdan Signed For Zale Bout

New York, July 16 (AP)—Marcel Cerdan, the fighting Frenchman who holds the European middleweight crown, will get a long awaited for chance at the world championship when he meets Tony Zale in September.

Final arrangements for the bout between the Casablanca clouter and the Gary, Ind., steelworker, were made here yesterday with the date and site yet to be determined.

Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, appears to have the edge for the 15-round battle. The Dodgers' park will be available the night of September 23.

Andy Niederreiter, promoter of the Tournament of Champions, Inc., said Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, or Comiskey Park, Chicago, would be considered if Ebbets Field isn't used.

Zale, who regained the title when he knocked out Rocky Graziano at Newark, N. J., June 10, will get 40 per cent of the gate this time, with Cerdan agreeing to 17½ per cent. Cerdan recaptured his European crown Saturday by outpointing Cyrille Delannoit at Brussels.

Buonvino-Rusk Go in Newburgh

Benny Lee Rusk, promising young heavyweight from Texas, faces his first real test in Newburgh's Recreation Park tonight when he meets Gino Buonvino, the Italian heavyweight champion, in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds.

The 22-year-old Texan's impressive record makes him an even-money choice to stay with the experienced Italian slugger. Rusk has lost only one fight in 11 professional starts and claims a string of 21 knockout victories as an amateur while serving in the army.

Buonvino is in tip-top condition for tonight's fight, his handlers claim, and they are predicting an easy victory over the inexperienced Rusk. Buonvino is a clever boxer but not much of a puncher.

Fight Results

Philadelphia — Eddie Giosa, 137½, Philadelphia, outpointed Johnny Forte, 135, Philadelphia, 8.

Milwaukee — Charles "Cabey" Lewis, 131½, Brooklyn, knocked out Phil Zwick, 125, Kaukauna, Wis., 1.

Waterville, Me. — Frankie Anderson, 160, Portland, Me., stopped Al Evans, 155, Montreal, 6.

Fall River, Mass.—Nick Stato, 133, Hartford, outpointed Roy Andrews, 132, Lowell, Mass., 10.

Worcester, Mass.—Joe DiMartino, 151, Bridgeport, Conn., and Dave "Golden Boy" Andross, 147½, Lowell, Mass., drew, 10.

Bagatelles:

Are you National Leaguers ready to give up or do you want to play next year's All-Star game with the Halloran Hospital paraplegics? . . . Those fellows do a pretty good job in basketball and, after the way your "favorites" behave against the American League "cripples" Tuesday in St. Louis, it could be mighty close. . . . City League recalcitrants are feeling the sting of President Tommy Davitt's campaign for orderly baseball. . . . From what we have observed, twilight league umpires take too much lip from the ball players. . . . Wonder when Ad Jones finds time to sleep these hectic days of Class B baseball? . . . Ted Laviano moving swiftly to make the Colonials a contender. . . . That's the way it should be, a 50-50 responsibility between the management and the fans.

Novelette:

Eddie Kobesky, the long-hitting Colonial manager, is known as a "card" to the trade. . . . When a shower came roaring down Tuesday in Poughkeepsie and flooded the diamond, Kobesky casually took off his shoes and stockings and strode to the plate in his bare feet. The umpire caught on quickly.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Commodore Roger Reardon, Vern Radel, Joe Huber, Frank O'Neill and other K.P.B.A. officials worked like beavors to make everybody happy Sunday. . . . It was an enjoyable afternoon for us, as usual, reminiscing with William C. Schryver about the halcyon days of local baseball. . . . The venerable Mr. Schryver, still hale and hearty at 71, never tires of talking baseball, even when outboard motors keep whizzing by. . . . We erred in referring to a regatta trophy as the "Carl Fischer Trophy." . . . It should have been the "John A. Fischer Memorial Trophy" donated by his widow, Mrs. Marie Fischer, in memory of the late, prominent hotel man and yachting devotee. The K.P.B.A. was organized in the Fischer Hotel and Mr. Fischer was a lifelong, honorary member of the association. . . . Not only in the world crisis but at the beach as well, maturer men might win a measure of approval if they could only be persuaded to keep their shirts on.

Of Men and Mice:

Ray Billows, six-times winner, is not defending his New York State golf title, but Poughkeepsie has three representatives in Wes Van Benschoten, Hank Kowal and William Bogle. . . . Wiltwyck plays at Red Hook Sunday. . . . Walt Thiel and Mahlon Atkinson Jr. knocked off Joe Sondey and H. Law Weatherwax but Catskill Country Club suffered a 6-21 shellacking at Red Hook. . . . In the days of the ancient Olympics each contest had eight judges, but oddly enough, the judges' word was far from final. The Greek Senate could reverse a decision. Who says sports and politics don't mix? . . . The immediate prize awarded a winner in the Olympics was a simple garland of olive leaves, but it really paid to win. If a winner happened to be from Athens, for example, he was maintained for the rest of his life at the public's expense. . . . What an idea for some give-away radio program sponsor!

At a recent brook trout feast we enjoyed with Frank Campbell, Vic Ruzzo, Charlie Mullen and Ed Dempsey, Campbell reneged on his threat to consume 15 of the luscious species that had been caught by George Gotelli, the noted Wall Street piscatorial expert. . . . Amid considerable embarrassment he settled for only eight. . . . Link Fisher put on the feed bag for Chuck Mauro and his Mauro's Grill City Minor League bowling champions this week, a little late but appetizing. . . . Mauro beamed proudly as his champs—Captain Tom Berardi, Big Mike Pugliese, Julius Chick, Tom Parker, Tom "Doc" Chiusi, Frankie Nerone and Joe "Chesty" Mitchell committed mayhem on roast chicken and the usual accessories.

If, as the wit observed, all those big league prize rookies become quiet as a statue, they still have chance to become a big bust. . . . When Messrs. Cashin, Schirick, Gottfried and Dwyer trade legal opinions on where the fairway ends and the rough starts on Twaalfskill's No. 1 fairway, that, duffers, is golf's cause celebre supreme. Ask anybody within a mile of the quartet.

MULLIGAN MIKE SAYS: We'd be the last to deprecate the fostering of barber shop quartets, although, personally, we enjoy close harmony the more the farther it is away.

Bowling Scores

Summer Mixed League

The King and Queen of local bowing circles, Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel, reigned supreme in this week's Summer Mixed Bowling League with gaudy triples of 661 and 654 respectively.

Clicking off scores of 223, 224 and 214, Ferraro's 661 blast took top honors of course but Mrs. Schatzel's return to form with that powerful 654 series, is the real news.

Off to a poor start, at least it was a poor start for the Queen, Rose really let loose this week with a resounding 241 single alongside of scores of 208 and 205.

Other good scores reported included Len Freer with 193-561; P. Corrado 194-501; Bud Evans 180-512; Johnny "Red" Schatzel 200-578; Fred Ferraro 185-532; John "Red" Sangi 182-505; and Fay Horne 498.

Po'keepsie Hosts For Colonial Loop All Star Contest

(By The Associated Press)

Poughkeepsie will be host to the Colonial League All-Star game July 26. The Chiefs hold a two and a half game lead over second place Port Chester and the host team is determined on standings after tonight's games.

The Chiefs split a pair at Stamford last night, winning the first, 7-1, and dropping the nightcap, 4-2. Joe Fasiska, Poughkeepsie first baseman, drove in four of the Chiefs' seven runs in the opener. The league leaders were held scoreless until the ninth in the second game.

Lou Rosin blanked Port Chester on five hits as the Clippers lost to Waterbury, 5 to 0. Joe Consoli drove in four runs with a home run, double and single.

Kingston gained a split in its double bill with Bridgeport by taking the 10-inning second game, 5 to 4. Bridgeport won the first, 6-2. The Bees scored first in the overtime, but two errors plus singles by John Odell and Manager Ed Kobesky gave the Colonials the winning margin.

Tonight's schedule:

Talbert vs. Woods In State Tennis

Forest Hills, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Top-seeded Billy Talbert met Sidney B. Wood, No. 3, and defending Champion Don McNeill, No. 2, faced Dick Savitt, No. 4, today in semi-finals of the New York State Tennis Championships.

This quartet made the seeding committee look smart by pushing through to their assigned brackets yesterday—but McNeill and Wood had their hands full.

McNeill, from New York, eliminated Leonard Steiner of Cornell 3-6, 6-0, 6-1, while Wood, also of New York, was forced three sets by Tony Vincent of the University of Miami, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Truck Driver Fined $10 After Accident

James Thomas of Syracuse, driver of a truck, which state police charged, left the scene of an accident on the Route 9-W viaduct at Highland Thursday afternoon, was fined $10 when arraigned before Peace Justice Albert Lester of Highland.

The driver was charged with having struck and damaged a car owned and operated by Evaline Baxter of Poughkeepsie early yesterday afternoon as she was headed north on the route and the truck was traveling in the opposite direction.

The driver, in a statement, the police reported said that he fell asleep and thought he had hit an abutment of the viaduct.

State police from Newburgh arrested Thomas at Middlehope and he was returned to Highland for appearance before the peace justice.

The woman swerved to her wrong side of the road to avoid a head-on collision and her car was damaged in the right rear, the report said.

Benjamin H. Matteson, dean of the faculty at the teachers' college, testified that classes at the school end at 4:15 p. m. but that there are many extra-curricular activities in which students who live in Kingston cannot participate because of the lack of transportation. He said that the present enrollment is 550, and that more than 700 are expected in the fall term. About 10 per cent of the student body lives in or near Kingston, Matteson said.

Raymond Reilly, general superintendent of Adirondack Transit Lines, said that since the expiration of that company's right to carry local passengers on May 1, he has received many complaints from former patrons.

Attached to the decision as filed by Wilkinson was the consent of Frank Van Gonsic, of Arrow Bus Lines, to an extension of one year.

Man, 82, Is Home; Found on Highway

Port Jervis, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—An 82-year-old man for whom state police and bloodhounds had conducted a 28-hour search in dense thickets and nearby swamplands was found safe last night.

Police said they found Eugene Baehr, of 33 Southfield Road, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., on a highway. He told them he became lost Wednesday afternoon while walking in the woods and following a natural gas pipeline. Despite an overnight stay in the woods, police said Baehr's condition was good.

During his absence Baehr's sons had offered a $500 reward for his discovery. Baehr had been staying at the home of Albert Augustine at Cahoonzie, 10 miles north of here.

more readily available in savings.

The survey indicated that only 5,500,000 persons — representing 4,500,000 families—own corporate stocks. The board estimated another 500,000 own bonds of corporations, states or cities, although it said that total may be set a little too low.

Checking into the investment preferences of persons who make more than $2,000 a year, the board found that:

1. Government bonds are preferred to bank deposits, although not so strongly as a couple of years ago.

2. Among families who prefer assets of changing value, real estate holds an edge over securities and common stock is rated the "least attractive" type of property.

The main arguments for bank deposits were "safety" (mentioned by 18 per cent) and easy conversion into cash (12 per cent.) But the fact that little interest is earned was regarded as a disadvantage by 19 per cent.

Sixty out of each 100 families admit they hold savings bonds primarily because of safety and secondarily because of the rate of interest received."

In contrast, 58 out of each 100 families "gave reasons against holding" real estate and 62 of each 100 against holding common stocks.

Most of those hostile to real estate investments considered prices too high. Others considered real estate "not safe, a gamble."

"Thirty of each 100 families queried said simply they were "not familiar" with common stocks. Another 26 regarded them as a "gamble" but only three in 100 thought stock prices "too high."

John Pulaski Dies

New York, July 16 (AP)—John Pulaski, 65, drama editor and dean of critics of the theatrical paper Variety, died of a stroke today at Jewish Memorial Hospital. Pulaski, a native of Philadelphia, had signed his theatrical criticisms "Ibee" for more than 35 years. He was born Isma Berringer Pulaski and the "Ibee" was coined from the first letters of his first names. His widow, Lillian, a brother and two sisters survive.

Cesana Is Held

Ernest Cesana, 19, of Ulster Park, was arrested Thursday by the State Police of Highland on a third degree burglary charge. Arraigned before Peace Justice Percy Bush, town of Ulster, he was held for the grand jury. Police said Cesana is charged with having entered a home in Port Ewen with a juvenile, whose name was withheld, and taking a .22 calibre rifle, an air pistol, coat and field glasses.

Berlin Blockade

would merely precipitate new demands.

The western allies cannot continue the air lift to Berlin forever. First, the cost is enormous. Second, it is bound to cost more fliers' lives. And third, it can never fulfill all western Berlin's needs.

At best it can give enough rations and perhaps enough warmth for 2,000,000 Germans to live a dismal cave-like existence in ruins. It cannot supply the raw material necessary to keep them at work earning a living. In the long run effective measures must be taken to smash the blockade.

The most drastic would be to send an armored column up the international highway leading to the city, announcing to the Russians that the western allies will fight their way through if necessary.

This would leave it up to the Soviet Union whether they want war or peace.

There is every indication they want peace and would not fight. In each step they have taken they left themselves a way out. The railroad is "under repairs." So is the barge canal. The highway is officially closed because of the currency reeform emergency.

However, the risk of war is always there.

The second action that could be taken would be for the western powers to exert the same type of "technical" squeeze on the Soviet Union in the rest of the world, that the Russians are exerting.

Technical difficulties might be found with the accreditation of Soviet representatives in Japan making it necessary for them to leave. Soviet ships could be held indefinitely in quarantines in U.S. harbors.

The Panama Canal could develop the same type of trouble as Germany's canal leading to Berlin.

It is believed here that until measures of this kind are taken making the Soviet Union weigh the cost of the blockade against losses elsewhere that no end can be achieved to the stalemate.

"The Soviet Union killed diplomacy in the 19th century sense," one top diplomat said. "We haven't made a single protest that has been successful, or delivered a single note that has solved a problem. They have gone back to jungle law and must be dealt with on the same basis."

Winston Churchill's comparison of Berlin to Munich is considered particularly appropriate. Yielding in Berlin would only lead to another physical crisis somewhere else. Facing a showdown now may avoid the threat of war for many years.

Baum Escapes Injury

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Carl L. Baum, 42, of (950 Curry Road) escaped unhurt late yesterday when his cabin cruiser exploded in the Hudson river five miles north of here. Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close said Baum was thrown into the river by the explosion which was believed to have been caused when gasoline fumes from the engine seeped into the cabin of the 28-foot boat. Close estimated damage at about $12,000.
